

The World of Film in Australia - on the Internet

Updated Thursday September 11, 2008 - Edition No 601

Newsletter Options - Registration is FREE

Help/Contact

4/9/2008: BITTER AND TWISTED FIRST IN SLATE OF AUSSIE RELEASES FOR AFS

The Dungog Film Festival principals Allannah Zitserman and Stavros Kazantzidis have launched a new distribution business, Australian Film Syndicate (AFS), specialising in selected Australian films and their first film is Bitter & Twisted, directed by Christopher Weekes and starring Noni Hazlehurst, Leeanna Walsman and Gary Sweet, which closed the 2008 Dungog Film Festival.

It will screen at the Chauvel in Sydney, Brighton Bay in Melbourne and Palace Nova Adelaide from September 18, with previews on September 13 & 14.

"Born out of our experiences of the Dungog Film Festival and our desire to see quality Australian films reach Australian audiences, not only in Dungog but across the nation, we have set up the Australian Film Syndicate (AFS) - a distribution company that focuses on local content." says Allannah Zitserman, AFS Managing Director.

"Both the Dungog Film Festival and the Australian Film Syndicate fill a void in Australian film development, exhibition and distribution. To be launching the distribution arm with Chris Weekes' already acclaimed feature debut is a mark of the excellence of all the endeavours and the remarkable scope of the synergies already at play. For me to be involved in such endeavours after 25 years in the industry is both enlivening and exciting," said Peter Castaldi, AFS National Distribution Manager.

Set in suburban Sydney, Bitter & Twisted is an ensemble piece about a family's reaction to son Liam's untimely death three years before, and draws powerful performances from a diverse cast including Noni Hazlehurst, Steve Rodgers, Leeanna Walsman, Gary Sweet, and Matt Newton. It was produced by Bridget Callow.

"I'm thrilled Australian audiences will finally get a chance to see Bitter & Twisted. It's been a labour of love for everyone involved, working with what little we had, always dreaming it would one day find its way onto the screen of a darkened theatre. The entire cast gave so much of themselves to this film, not the least Noni who virtually transcends any character she's played before with her raw and honest portrayal of Penelope; it would be nothing short of devastating if Bitter & Twisted had drifted away with time." Christopher Weekes said today.

Bitter and Twisted

Position yourself for success.

University of next level, here I come

University of Phoenix
Thinking ahead

CLICK HERE

© Urban Cinefile 1997 - 2008